

DIXON EVENING TELEGRAPH.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF DIXON, BY ACT OF CITY COUNCIL.

Dixon Telegraph Sixtieth Year

DIXON ILLINOIS WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 8 1911.

Daily Twenty-Eighth Year No. 64

ELECTRICITY CHEAPER FOR THE CONSUMER

LIGHTING COMPANY MAKES SUBSTANTIAL REDUCTION, EFFECTIVE NOV. 1ST.

IS ALSO TO IMPROVE SERVICE

Overcrowded Circuits Are to Be Relieved and Other Changes Made.

Cheaper electricity for the consumers of Dixon is assured as a result of an order issued by Vice President and General Manager C. C. Smith while here yesterday. The reduction in price, which Mr. Smith has sanctioned, has been contemplated for some time, and means a reduction of 20 per cent to the people of the city.

The rates as they now stand are for kilowatt hours as follows: First 100 K. W. hours 15c Second 100 K. W. hours 12c Third K. W. hours 9c The new rates, which become effective Nov. 1, are: First K. W. hours 12c Second 100 K. W. hours 9c Third K. W. hours 7c

Big Discount Allowed. In addition to the reduction in the cost of the juice, Mr. Smith allows the present discount of 10 per cent, and as a result Dixon consumers are now getting the same rates and same reduction as the city of Milwaukee. The rate is better than that in Sterling where, while the prices are the same, the discount is but 5 per cent. This action on the part of the company will be appreciated, inasmuch as it is entirely voluntary on the part of the company and was not made in connection with the negotiations for the renewal of the street lighting contract.

To Improve Service. As a result of investigations that have been carried on by an expert from Milwaukee, which shows some undesirable conditions on some of the circuits, the company announces that it will make some extensive alterations and changes. It has been found that some of the downtown circuits are overloaded, especially those on which the theatres are, and to remedy this transformers, which will equalize the power, are to be installed.

The expert, by his test instruments, finds that the power here is on a par with that in Milwaukee and many cities much larger than Dixon, and says that barring the downtown circuits the company's service here is good. He explains that in all cases where heavy loads are thrown onto a circuit, the heavier load takes most of the electricity.

In many cities where there are many picture shows special circuits have been installed, it being found impossible to keep the circuits equalized with these institutions on the regular circuits. However, by installing transformers on the overloaded lines, the defect will be remedied.

FREEPORT WILL SELECT APPRAISER

COUNCIL AND A COMMITTEE OF TEN TO MEET THURSDAY EVENING.

Freeport, Nov. 8.—A meeting of the citizens' committee of ten, who are to assist the city council in the waterworks question, and the mayor and city council has been called for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock by Mayor Dittmar. At that time names of six expert appraisers will be presented. These appraisers were selected by the committee on water, of the city council, and a committee of three of the citizens' committee. One of these appraisers will be selected on Thursday evening. There will be other matters pertaining to the waterworks question.

RUDOLPH BLANKENBURG

Democrat Who May Be Mayor of Philadelphia.

JEROME DAVIS HURT IN FALL FROM ROOF

WORKING ON WILBUR LUMBER COMPANY SHEDS AND BROKE ARM.

Jerome Davis suffered a bad fall this morning which resulted in a broken arm, minor cuts and bruises, and a sojourn in the Dixon hospital. Mr. Davis, who is advanced in years, was working on the roof of the new sheds being erected by the Wilbur Lumber company on the old Emerson Lumber company grounds. He was engaged early this morning in sweeping the heavy frost from the roof timbers, preparatory to beginning carpenter work and he lost his footing, plunging to the ground, 14 feet below.

A pile of sand under him broke the fall to some extent, or death would probably have been the result. The arm was broken above the wrist and he sustained several cuts about the head and face.

A physician was called to the scene and in the meantime Mr. Davis was carried into the office of the company by his associates. The physician looked him over and found it would be necessary to remove the injured man to the hospital.

ARGUE NEXT WEEK FOR MIGHILL TRIAL

QUESTION OF A NEW TRIAL IN MURDER CASE WILL THEN BE SETTLED.

Arguments for a new trial in the case of Ira Mighill, found guilty of murder, will not be made until next week. Judge Farrand, who has been conducting court here eight weeks, has asked Attorney Erwin to file affidavit, if he has any, by Saturday, so that States Attorney Edwards may investigate them and prepare to argue against the motion some time next week.

The judge has not yet rendered his decision in the Moore vs. Fuller case, being busy reviewing the testimony and looking up authorities on the questions involved. Nothing of importance was done in court this afternoon.

WOOL GROWERS TO MEET IN OMAHA

The annual convention of the Wool Growers' association will be held in Omaha in December. In conjunction with it, a mammoth sheep show, the largest ever held, will be given.

HOW MUCH HAS PLANT DEPRECIATED?

WATER COMPANY MADE NO ESTIMATE IN QUOTING PRICE TO CITY.

PARALLEL DRAWN IN FREEPORT

Appraisement in That City Showed Depreciation of 21 Per Cent in 28 Years.

The quotation of a price of $150,000 for the Dixon Water company's holdings in this city, which was announced yesterday together with the company's statement of the value of its property and stock, has opened a question which will be kept before the voters of the city for the next year, at least, and one which will cause much investigation of the negotiations which have been carried out in other cities.

The water company's itemized statement showing the cost of purchase and installation of the works, was carefully gotten up, and would have been a remarkably fair statement had the percentage of the condition of the equipment been stated. In all cities where appraisements have been made, or where the value of a waterworks is under consideration, the cost to reproduce the plant is given, but the condition of the equipment is also given.

Freeport Loss 21 Per Cent. Early this year the Freeport waterworks was appraised by the C. H. Evans Engineering company, and some of the data given in that case will doubtless prove interesting here, inasmuch as it is probable the percentage of the condition of the plant there is about the same as here since the Freeport investment was made in 1882 and 1883, about the time work was started on the local plant.

Per Cent of Condition. The company's report shows the condition of the different equipment, after 28 years, to be:

	Condition Per Cent	Depreciation
Buildings	64.9	35.1
Brick stack	44	56
Reservoir	93	7
Filter plant	77	23
Pumping
Equipment	69.2	30.8
Wells, valves, etc.	61.9	38.1
Distribution
system	83.5	16.5
Standpipe	53	47
Tools, machinery	51.1	48.9
Supplies, repairs	92.5	7.5
Furniture	59	41
Paving	85	15
Totals	79.3	20.7

Value Cut Accordingly. Under the estimate made as above, the Evans company finds that the Freeport water company, to reproduce which would cost $219,214 is now worth but $173,441. Thus it can be seen that an appraisement of the local plant should be made. The company's statement while interesting, can have no bearing on the ultimate purchase of the plant by the city. A fair and actual value of the plant must be secured.

WEATHER BULLETIN

Latitude, 41 deg., 48 min., N. Longitude, 89 deg., 27 min., W 705 feet above sea level

The following report of high and low temperatures and precipitation are taken at 7 o'clock each morning and are for the preceding 24 hours: Sunday 40 33 Monday 51 39 .70 Tuesday 48 32 .15 Wednesday 48 26

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Fair today, tomorrow unsettled with probably showers; moderate temperature; moderate, variable winds.

Miss Shafer, trimmer for Mrs. Lucy Rosbrook, has returned from Chicago where she has been studying the winter styles and the latest ideas in winter hats.

LOSS A WINNER IN BAY STATE

Re-Elected over Frothingham by 4,000 Plurality.

REPUBLICANS CONFIDENT EARLY

G. O. P. Wins Lower Branch of Legislature in New York State—Judges Elected in Chicago from Both Tickets.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Practically complete returns from the entire state give the following vote: Foss, 210,500; Frothingham, 202,800; Foss plurality, 7,700.

Complete returns indicate that Luce, Republican, has been elected lieutenant governor by about 4,000 plurality over Walsh, Democrat.

Fairly complete returns show a slight gain for the Republicans in the legislature.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Strenuous efforts on the part of the Republicans of this state failed to bowl Eugene Foss out of the governor's chair.

He was re-elected by a plurality of from 4,000 to 6,000 over Louis Frothingham, who has been lieutenant governor for the past three years. To add to the chagrin of the Republicans, who believed from the early returns that the whole ticket had been elected, there is every indication that David I. Walsh, the Democratic nominee, has been elected lieutenant governor over Robert Luce.

Foss carried Boston by a plurality of about 22,000, as against 27,700 last year. The 321 towns in the state gave Frothingham a lead of about 18,000 over Foss, but the Republican nominee fell slightly behind in the thirty-two outside cities. The result was a great surprise to the Republican leaders and not a few of the Democratic managers were astonished.

REPUBLICANS MAKE GAIN

Capture Lower House of New York Legislature.

New York, Nov. 8.—The Republicans in the state captured the only rebound that it was possible to capture in this election.

The only state ticket in the field was the assembly ticket for election to the lower house of the state legislature. A year ago—the Democratic landslide year—the New York assembly stood 87 Democrats to 63 Republicans.

This means a rebuke, apparently, to the administration of Governor Dix. The most interesting features of the election in the state are the victory of the Socialists in the municipal election in Schenectady and the defeat of Thomas Mott Osborne, one of Governor Dix's most intimate friends, for mayor of Auburn.

In New York city there has been a final fight between the allied forces of the Republican party and those following the lead of William R. Hearst against a straight-out Tammany judiciary and county ticket, and Tammany wins by from 25,000 to 35,000.

Tammany has elected its county ticket by pluralities running from 2,379 for Cohalan for the supreme court, to 13,389 for Fowler for surrogate.

Hirshberg's plurality for sheriff is 3,221.

The supreme court justices elected are: Francis M. Scott, Daniel F. Cohalan, Francis Key Pendleton and Henry D. Hotchkiss.

In the next state assembly of the 150 members the Republicans will have 102 members of the assembly the Democrats 47 and the Socialists 1.

CHICAGO VICTORY DIVIDED

Both Republicans and Democrats Elect Some Judges.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Returns from the Cook county judicial election indicate that the Republicans and Democrats divided the ten superior court judgeships and that the Democrats elected one circuit judge. A higher-pay-for-judges proposition was defeated. Following are the successful judicial candidates:

Superior court judges—Marcus A. Kavanaugh, Rep.; William H. McSurely, Rep.; Joseph H. Fitch, Dem.; M. L. McKinley, Dem.; Hugo Lam, Rep.; Albert C. Barnes, Rep.; Henry V. Freeman, Rep.; Denis E. Sullivan, Dem.; Clarence N. Goodwin, Dem.; Daniel L. Cruise, Dem.

Circuit court judge—John P. McGorty, Dem.

Extraordinary pains were taken to prevent fraudulent voting. The polls were triply guarded.

Our city subscribers may pay for their Telegraph at the office if it suits their convenience better than paying the carriers.

RESULTS OF ELECTION

Nassau County Reverses Itself.

Hempstead, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Nassau county, home district of Colonel Roosevelt and nearly a score of other men prominent in the financial and political world, which went Democratic last year by nearly 3,000, after giving Mr. Roosevelt and President Taft pluralities of over 3,500 each, reversed itself and fell into the Republican ranks again by nearly 2,100 plurality.

James R. Garfield Defeated.

Painesville, O., Nov. 8.—Returns from Lake county indicate that James R. Garfield, Republican, has been defeated by Fletcher D. Mallin, Democrat, as delegate to the coming state constitutional convention. Garfield refused to pledge himself to vote for the initiative and referendum as a fundamental part of the new constitution.

Labor Party Beaten.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—The voters of San Francisco practically completed the destruction of the labor machine when they elected a board of supervisors almost solidly anti-union. The municipal conference ticket, which is really fusion, has made nearly a clean sweep so far as the board of supervisors is concerned.

Democrat Elected in Columbus, O.

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—George J. Karb, Democrat, has defeated Mayor George S. Marshall, reform Republican, for re-election by a plurality of 6,000 on a total vote of 43,000. Marshall lost thousands of votes as a result of his attitude during the street car strike a year ago.

Heavy Vote in New Mexico.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 8.—New Mexico, at its first state election, polled the heaviest vote it ever cast. The Democratic central committee claims the state for McDonald by 4,500. Returns are late because of slow and complicated count.

Philadelphia Result Close.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Returns indicate the election of Rudolph Blankenburg for mayor of Philadelphia by a small majority, but the vote is so close that no definite result can be determined until all the wards can be heard from.

Democratic Kansas Congressman.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 8.—Returns show the election of Joseph Taggart, Democrat, in the second congressional district to succeed the late Mitchell. The election in the seventh district will be held Friday.

SURPRISE IN MARYLAND

Chooses Republican State Officers Second Time in Thirty Years.

Baltimore, Nov. 8.—For the second time in over thirty years Maryland has elected a Republican ticket. Scattering returns from all over the state and Baltimore city show steady Republican gains, indicating the election of Phillips Lee Golsborough by a majority of 3,000 or more.

The Republican state chairman claims the state by 8,000 and over.

Many Injured in Train Wreck.

Ardmore, Okla., Nov. 8.—Several passengers are reported injured and the engineer of one of the locomotives probably fatally hurt, in a head-on collision between passenger trains near Arbuckle, Okla., on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad.

NEBRASKA RESULTS MIXED

Republicans Win on Judges and Lose on Congressman.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 8.—Election in this state was in the main a Republican victory, although the only congressional district to hold an election went Democratic by a large majority.

Three members of the supreme court elected were all Republicans, the majority being less than 1,000, a slight reduction over last year's vote. In the city of Omaha, Republicans made a clean sweep, with the exception of sheriff, on which a most bitter campaign was waged, the result being a Democratic victory by 1,500. Other Republican candidates were elected by 1,200.

The only portion of the campaign of importance was in the Third congressional district, in which Stephens, Democrat, is elected over Elliot, Republican.

LIQUOR ISSUE IN ILLINOIS

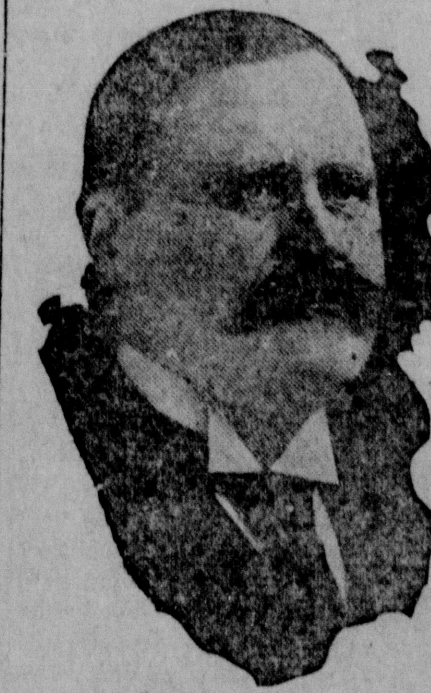

Twenty Cities in State in Hot Fight on Saloon Question.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 8.—Fair weather greeted election day in the twenty cities in the state that voted on local option. The election came after a hot fight in most places and the large vote indicated that the results would be in doubt until after the final count.

AGREE ON CONTRACT FOR STREET LIGHTS

EUGENE N. FOSS

Governor of Massachusetts Will Still Hold Position.

The cities now "dry" where a vote was taken are: Naples, Hamburg, Hardin, Tallula, Mount Carmel, Meredosia, Coulterville, Jonesboro, Hillerman, Metropolis, Golconda and Jacksonville.

The places where liquor is now sold are: Petersburg, Campsville, Rockwood, Baldwin, Pinckneyville, Mount City, Grand Chain and Burkville.

RHODE ISLAND REPUBLICAN

Pothier Is Re-Elected Governor and Legislature Is Republican.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 8.—Indications point to a complete Republican victory in Rhode Island by pluralities considerably larger than a year ago. For the position of governor, the most closely contested on the ticket, Governor Aram J. Pothier has made net gains of several hundred over Lewis A. Waterman, his Democratic opponent, as compared with the figures a year ago. The rest of the Republican ticket is easily ahead of the Democratic slate, and elected by pluralities running into the thousands.

In the general assembly the Republican gains have been notable.

NO CHANGE IN NEW JERSEY

Governor Wilson Has Republican Legislature on His Hands.

New York, Nov. 8.—New Jersey elected eight senators out of a total of twenty-one and a complete lower house. In the counties where there were senate contests, the Republicans had six members in the present senate and the Democrats two.

The returns indicate the election of six Republicans and two Democrats, making no change in the present complexion of the senate, the Republicans retaining control of the upper house by 12 to 9.

This means that Governor Wilson will have a Republican legislature on his hands.

KENTUCKY LANDSLIDE

Democracy Takes Governor and Everything in Sight.

Louisville, Nov. 8.—An eleventh hour landslide towards the Democratic ticket in Kentucky gave James B. McCreary, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, the largest majority that any candidate for governor has received in this state for many years.

Indications are that his majority will reach about 25,000. Both branches of the legislature will be Democratic, insuring Congressman Ollie James' election to the United States senate.

CLEVELAND ELECTS BAKER

Democratic Candidate Ran on a Tom L. Johnson Platform.

Cleveland, Nov. 8.—The Cleveland Press estimates Newton D. Baker, Democrat, is elected mayor by 15,000 over Hogen, Republican. Baker ran on a Tom L. Johnson platform.

His chief fight was for municipal operation of the electric light utility, following the successful operation of a three-cent street car fare here for two years under public control.

No Great Change in Virginia. Richmond, Va., Nov. 8.—Returns from the legislative election in Virginia indicate no material change in the complexion of the general assembly.

Eli Leach of Hardwick, Miss., is here visiting relatives.

PROVISION MADE FOR 17 ARC AND 300 INCANDESCENT LAMPS.

WILL HAVE ALL NIGHT SCHEDULE

New Wires Will Have to Be Strung Throughout City to Carry Tungsten Lamps.

The street lighting question is not entirely settled, even though a long conference was held yesterday afternoon by the city officials and Vice Presidents C. C. Smith and H. S. Dixon of the Lee County Lighting company. However, satisfactory progress has been made and it is very probable that the contract will be signed within a short time, as all important details have been agreed upon. In fact, a tentative contract has been drawn up, which proved satisfactory to all parties and which it was announced will probably be signed.

The contract is for a term of five years, and calls for 60 watt Tungsten incandescent lights in the residence district and new 4.4 ampere Magnetite direct current arc lights of the newest pattern in the business district. The number of lights to be installed is one of the points still in doubt, but it is probable the number of arcs will approximate 17, while about 300 incandescent lights will be used.

All Night Schedule.

The schedule agreed upon will mean that the streets will be lighted all night and every night. The lights are to be turned on one-half hour after sunset daily and allowed to run until one-half hour before sunrise. The city will pay $70 per year for the arc lights and $16 for the smaller lamps.

The formation of a contract of this kind will necessitate the rebuilding of many of the circuits in the city, and means practically new lights throughout in the residence district. Because the street lights will have to be turned on and off it will be impossible to put them on any of the residence circuits, and it is also impracticable to put them on the arc circuits now in the residence district. Consequently the company will have to erect new lines, and is anxious that the contract be signed so work can start before the ground freezes.

Want Five Year Contract.

In section 1 of the contract it is contemplated to put 16 arc lights in the business district and a minimum of three hundred tungsten lights in the residence district.

In the proposed contract, the lighting company expect to install and furnish fixtures to all these lights. They stipulate a five year contract but it is doubtful whether or not the city will give it.

In section 2 the company agrees to light each of the lamps at a period 30 minutes after sundown on each evening and keep them burning until 30 minutes before sunrise on each morning.

In section 3 they agree to make all renewals of lights and equipment at their own expense and in a later section they agree to install the very latest models of lights and when renewals are necessary they agree to replace with the very latest models. They also agree to properly clean and keep in condition these lights.

In section 4 it is agreed that in payment for the service, the city is to pay, in monthly installments, promptly after the end of each calendar month, at the rate of $70 for each arc light, per annum, and at the rate of $16 per annum for each tungsten lamp.

In 5 they agree to suspend the area over the middle of the roadway and maintained at a height of 35 feet or a minimum height of 25 feet.

Section 6 says that all incandescent lamps shall be affixed to suitable metal arms or standards attached to poles, such arms to be not over 7 feet long. The height to be located by the commissioners.

Reading Circle.

The Thursday Reading Circle will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Richard Courtright.

Dixon Woman's Club.

The Dixon Woman's club was entertained Saturday afternoon by Mrs. W. C. McWethy. Mrs. Minnie Tosney read a very interesting paper on the Lincoln-Douglas debate. She showed how the growth of slavery and of a strong anti-slavery sentiment made the further extension of slavery a great political question. After giving brief outlines of the careers of Lincoln and Douglas previous to their famous campaign the paper told of the famed debates between Lincoln and Douglas, of the immediate result of the campaign and later result of Douglas' answer to Lincoln's question at Freeport.

At the close of the program the hostess served refreshments and the ladies enjoyed the customary social hour.

Wedding Supper.

A wedding supper was served last night at 7 o'clock at the Tom Coffee home, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Tierney of Dubuque. There were 14 guests at the table.

AMBOY MEN FORM COMMERCIAL CLUB

TO FURTHER BUSINESS INTERESTS OF CITY AND FOR SOCIAL PURPOSES.

Amboy, Nov. 8.—A number of the business men here have been for some time considering a project that has now assumed a definite form. An organization has been effected to be known as the Amboy Commercial club. It is the intention of the club to incorporate and measures to that effect have already been taken. It will be both a business and social organization, its purpose being to further the business interests of Amboy and to add to the social life and pleasures of its members. Much work will yet be done before the club will be established upon a working basis, but at a meeting Tuesday evening a number of committees were appointed and the following officers were elected:

President—Dr. R. V. Moore.
Vice President—H. H. Badger.
Secretary—Dr. W. L. Berryman.
Treasurer—F. L. Doty.

In 7 it is agreed that any lamps furnished under this contract shall not be stationed over 360 feet apart. In 8 it is agreed that any lamps furnished in excess of the number contracted for shall be paid for in accordance with the terms of the contract.

In 9 the company agrees to keep up the service, light and extinguish the lights and keep the same burning and in operation every night during the life of the contract.

It hardly seems necessary for the company to agree to extinguish the lights. They'll do that without being bound to it.

In 10 it is agreed that stipulations and agreements contained in the contract shall be extended to and be binding upon the successors and assigns of the respective parties.

In 11 it is agreed that the arcs and tungsten lights shall be of the most modern and improved types when installed and that when such lights have reached the end of their useful life, that the most modern and improved lights shall be installed in their places.

In the last section it is agreed that all the electric current furnished and used in operating the magnitudes and tungsten lamps furnished under this contract shall be maintained at an average standard equal to the specifications of the National Electric Light association for street lighting and so regulated as to give the best possible service under all conditions.

ROCK RIVER PASTORS MEET HERE NOV. 13

ANNUAL MEETING WITH GOOD PROGRAM AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Rock River Pastors' association will be held at the M. E. church in this city Monday, Nov. 13th. There will be a morning session at 10:30, when a paper will be read by Rev. M. N. Clark of the Congregational church on the subject, "The Pulpit's Present Day Problems."

An adjournment will be taken for lunch at noon and the session will reconvene at 1:30 for the election of officers. Following the business period a paper will be read by Rev. Jas. Potter. It is expected that there will be a good attendance of ministers from this and the neighboring counties.

FELL FROM WAGON; BROKE COLLAR BONE

DAN KLEIN MET WITH ACCIDENT IN NORTH DIXON THIS MORNING.

Dan Klein fell from a wagon on which he was riding in North Dixon this morning and suffered a broken collar bone from the accident. Just how the young man happened to fall from the cart is unknown, but he struck on his right shoulder with sufficient force to break the collar bone. The accident will keep him from his work for some time.

PUT EMERY DUST IN ENGINE PUMP

TWO MEN CRIPPLE ILLINOIS CENTRAL ENGINE IN FREEPORT.

Freeport, Nov. 8.—While engine No. 2030 was standing in the Illinois Central yards on Nov. 2, two men approached and quietly placed a quantity of emery dust in the pump of the engine. This caused considerable trouble and it was necessary to take the engine to the roundhouse and it required several men to put it in condition again. It was stated this morning that the engineer saw the men in the act and that he knows them. It is probable some action will be taken in the matter.

CONTRACT LET FOR IMPROVEMENT AT JAIL

The contract for the erection of a cell room of the county jail was yesterday awarded to Contractor D. M. Billmyer of Ashton, the price being $175. The contract was awarded by the building committee of the board of supervisors, who also awarded the contract for the re-bottoming of the seats of the chairs in the supervisors' room to C. Gonnerman of this city.

Dramatic Notes

FAMILY THEATRE

This evening will afford the last opportunity to witness the present good bill at the Family theatre, as there will be a change of vaudeville tomorrow night. The Cuban Trio of Spanish equilibrists and globe actors give a spectacular act that marks them as professionals of a high order. Their balancing acts are very clever and draw frequent applause. The second act is the Garden City Trio, three young men who furnish genuine comedy and a lot of good singing and who were given the heaviest applause that has greeted any act for many weeks. The pictures for this evening are The Wrong Glove, and Her Sister's Children.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

Tonight at the Princess theatre you will see a well balanced program—a comedy, an Indian picture and a war drama. All three pictures are new films. The Indian picture is entitled J. A. Sioux Spy, and is full of excitement from beginning to end. Brown Wolf spies upon the Cheyenne village. He works his way into the village by feigning illness and falls in love with Silver Moon. He is torn between love and duty. The Sioux learn of Brown Wolf's entanglement and swoop down upon the Cheyennes. Brown Wolf refuses to fight his own people, but when Silver Moon's father is in danger he plunges into the fray. The Sioux are defeated and Brown Wolf wins a bride. There is a big laugh in Mutt and Jeff and the county judge—comedy all the way through. The third picture is entitled The Colonel's Daughter, and is a war drama that is considered the best war drama that has ever been produced.

Eye Strain Is A Curse

and many foolish people are cursed with it, because they have listened to incompetent vendors of spectacles and eye-glasses, and bought and used glasses that gave temporary relief while permanently ruining the eyesight. I fit glasses that remove the strain on the eyes, and make vision easy and comfortable. Come and see me and I will fit glasses to your eyes that will permanently relieve your eye strain. Don't delay; come now.

"No, no; I tell you no." Dede arose impatiently, but her eyes were moist with the memory of her pet. "Please don't mention her to me again. If you think it was easy to part with her, you are mistaken. But I've seen the last of her, and I want to forget her."

"If You'd Just Let Me Buy Her Back."

Daylight made no answer, and the door closed behind her.

Half an hour later he was conferring with Jones, an erstwhile elevator boy and rabid proletarian whom Daylight long before had grubstaked to literature for a year. The resulting novel had been a failure. Editors and publishers would not look at it, and Daylight was now using the disgruntled author in a little private secret service system he had been compelled to establish for himself. Jones, who affected to be surprised at nothing after his crushing experience, betrayed no surprise now when the task was given him to locate the purchaser of a certain sorrel mare.

"How high shall I pay for her?" he asked.

"Any price. You've got to get her, that's the point. Drive a sharp bargain so as not to excite suspicion, but get her. Then you deliver her to that address up in Sonoma County. The man's the caretaker on a little ranch I have there. Tell him he's to take whacking good care of her. And after that forget all about it. Don't tell me the name of the man you buy her from. Don't tell me anything about it except that you've got her and delivered her. Savee?"

But the week had not passed, when Daylight noted the flash in Dede's eyes that boded trouble.

"Something's gone wrong—what is it?" he said boldly.

"Mab," she said. "The man who bought her has sold her already. If I thought you had anything to do with it—"

"I don't even know who you sold her to," was Daylight's answer. "And what's more, I'm not bothering my head about her. She was your mare, and it's none of my business what you did with her. You haven't got her, that's sure, and worse luck. And now, while we're on touchy subjects, I'm going to open another one with you. And you needn't get touchy about it. It's not really your business at all. It's about that brother of yours. He needs more than you can do for him. Selling that mare of yours won't send him to Germany. And that's what his own doctors say he needs—that crack German specialist who rips a man's bones and muscles into pulp and then moulds them all over again. Well, I want to send him to Germany and give that crack a flutter, that's all."

"If it were only possible!" she said, half breathlessly, and wholly without anger. "Only it isn't, and you know it isn't. I can't accept money from you."

"Now look here, Miss Mason. You've got to get some foolish notions out of your head. This money notion is one of the funniest things I've seen. Suppose you was falling over a cliff, wouldn't it be all right for me to reach out and catch you by the arm? Sure it would. You're standing in your brother's way. No matter what notions you've got in your head, you've got to get out of the way and give him a chance. Will you let me go and see him and talk it over with him? I'll make it a hard and fast business proposition. I'll stake him to get well, and that's all, and charge him interest."

She visibly hesitated.

"And just remember one thing, Miss Mason: it's his leg, not yours."

Still she refrained from giving her answer, and Daylight went on strengthening his position.

"And remember, I go over to see him alone. He's a man, and I can deal with him better without women-folk around. I'll go over tomorrow afternoon."

CHAPTER XVII.

For six weeks hand-running Daylight had seen nothing of Dede except in the office, and there he resolutely refrained from making approaches. But by the seventh Sunday his hunger for her overmastered him. It was a stormy day. A heavy south-east gale was blowing, and squall after squall of rain and wind swept over the city. He could not take his mind off of her, and a persistent picture came to him of her sitting by a window and sewing feminine fripperies of some sort. When the time came for his pre-luncheon cocktail to be served to him in his rooms, he did not take it. Filled with a daring determination, he glanced at his note-book for Dede's telephone number, and called for the switch.

At first it was the landlady's daughter who was raised, but in a minute he heard the voice he had been hungry to hear.

"I just wanted to tell you that I'm coming out to see you," he said. "I didn't want to break in on you without warning, that was all."

"Has something happened?" came her voice.

"I'll tell you when I get there," he evaded.

She came herself to the door to receive him and shake hands with him. He hung his makintosh and hat on the rack in the comfortable hall and turned to her for direction.

"They're busy in there," she said, indicating the parlor, from which came the boisterous voices of young people, and through the open door of which he could see several college youths. "So you will have to come into my rooms."

She led the way through the door opening out of the hall to the right, and, once inside, he stood awkwardly rooted to the floor, gazing about him and at her and all the time trying not to gaze. In his perturbation he failed to hear and see her invitation to a seat.

"Won't you sit down?" she repeated. "Look here," he said, in a voice that shook with passion, "there's one thing I won't do, and that's propose to you in the office. That's why I'm here. Dede Mason, I want you, I just want you."

So precipitate was he, that she had barely time to cry out her involuntary alarm and to step back, at the same time catching one of his hands as he attempted to gather her into his arms.

"Oh, I know I'm a sure enough fool," he said. "I—I guess I'll sit down. Don't be scared, Miss Mason. I'm not real dangerous."

"I'm not afraid," she answered, with a smile, slipping down herself into a chair.

"It's funny," Daylight sighed, almost with regret; "here I am, strong enough to bend you around and tie knots in you. Here I am, used to having my will with man, beast or anything. And here I am sitting in this chair, as weak and helpless as a little the rising wind proclaimed its imminence. As far as he could see, there was no sign of Dede on the smooth, grassy hills. To the right, dipping down into a hollow and rising again, was a large, full-grown eucalyptus grove. Here all was noise and movement, the lofty, slender-trunked trees swaying back and forth in the wind and clashing their branches together. In the squalls, above all the minor noises of creaking and groaning, arose a deep thrumming note as of a mighty harp. Knowing Dede as he did, Daylight was confident that he would find her somewhere in this grove where the storm effects were so pronounced. And find her he did, across the hollow and on the exposed crest of the opposing slope where the gale smote its fiercest blows.

"It's the same old thing," he said. "I want you and I've come for you. You've just got to have me, Dede, for the more I think about it the more certain I am that you've got a sneak liking for me that's something more than just ordinary liking. And you don't say that it isn't; now dost you?"

"Please, please," she begged. "We can never marry, so don't let us discuss it."

Daylight decided that action was more efficient than speech. So he stepped between her and the wind and drew her so that she stood close in the shelter of him. An unusually stiff squall blew about them and thrummed overhead in the tree-tops, and both paused to listen. A shower of flying leaves enveloped them, and hard on the heel of the wind came driving drops of rain. He looked down on her and on her hair, wind-blown about her face; and because of her closeness to him and of a fresher and more poignant realization of what she meant to him, he trembled so that she was aware of it in the hand that held hers. She suddenly leaned against him, bowing her head until it rested lightly upon his breast. And so they stood while another squall, with flying leaves and scattered drops of rain, rattled past. With equal suddenness she lifted her head and looked at him.

"Do you know," she said, "I prayed last night about you. I prayed that you would fail, that you would lose everything—everything."

Daylight stared his amazement at this cryptic utterance.

"That sure beats me. I always said I got out of my depth with women, and you've got me out of my depth now. Well, you've just got to explain, that's all."

His arms went around her and held her closely, and this time she did not resist. Her head was bowed, and he could not see her face, yet he had a premonition that she was crying. He had learned the virtue of silence, and he waited her will in the matter. Things had come to such a pass that she was bound to tell him something now. Of that he was confident.

"I would dearly like to marry you," she faltered, "but I am afraid. I am proud and humble at the same time that a man like you should care for me. But you have too much money. There's where my abominable common sense steps in. Even if we did marry, you could never be my man—my lover and my husband. You would be my money man. I know I am a foolish woman, but I want my man for myself. And your money destroys you; it makes you less and less nice. I am not ashamed to say that I love you, because I shall never marry you. And I loved you much when I did not know you at all, when you first came down from Alaska and I first went into the office. You were my hero. You were the Burning Daylight of the gold-diggings, the daring traveler and miner. And you looked it. I don't see how any woman could have looked at you without loving you—then. But you don't look it now. You, a man of the open, have been cooping yourself up in the cities with all that that means. You are becoming something different, something not so healthy, not so clean, not so nice. Your money and your way of life are doing it. You know it. You haven't the same body now that you had then. You are putting on flesh, and it is not healthy flesh. You are kind and genial with me, I know, but you are not kind and genial to all the world as you were then. You have become harsh and cruel. I do love you, but I cannot marry you and destroy love. You are growing into a thing that I must in the end despise. You can't help it. More than you can possibly love me, do you love this business game. This business—and it's all perfectly useless, so far as you are concerned—claims all of you. I sometimes think it would be easier to share you equitably with another woman than to share you with this business. I might have half of you, at any rate. But this business would claim, not half of you, but nine-tenths of you, or ninety-nine hundredths. You hold back nothing; you put all you've got into whatever you are doing—"

"Limit is the sky," he grunted grim affirmation.

"But if you would only play the lover-husband that way. And now I won't say another word," she added. "I've delivered a whole sermon."

She rested now, frankly and fairly, in the shelter of his arms, and both were oblivious to the gale that rushed past them in quicker and stronger blasts. The big downpour of rain had not yet come, but the mist-like squalls were more frequent. Daylight was openly perplexed, and he was still perplexed when he began to speak.

"You've left me no argument. I know I'm not the same man that came from Alaska. I couldn't hit the trail with the dogs as I did in them days. I'm soft in my muscles, and my mind's gone hard. I used to respect men. I despise them now. You see, I spent all my life in the open, and I reckon I'm lamb. You sure take the starch out of me."

"I—I wish you hadn't asked," she said softly.

"Mebbe it's best you should know a few things before you give me an answer," he went on, ignoring the fact that the answer had already been given. "I never went after a woman before in my life, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The stuff you read about me in the papers and books, about me being a lady-killer, is all wrong. There's not an iota of truth in it. I guess I've done more than my share of card-playing and whisky-drinking, but women I've let alone. There was a woman that killed herself, but I didn't know she wanted me that bad or else I'd have married her—not for love, but to keep her from killing herself. She was the best of the bolting, but I never gave her any encouragement. I'm telling you all this because you've read about it, and I want you to get it straight from me."

TIGER MEN READY FOR THE BULLDOG

Yale and Princeton to Clash On Gridiron Nov. 18.

TEAMS ARE EVENLY MATCHED

Game Should Result in Good Battle. Yale Will Depend Much on Captain Howe, While Princeton Men Expect Pendleton to Worry Blue.

By TOMMY CLARK.

The eleven of Yale and Princeton are ready to clash on the gridiron in New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18. For thirty-six years the Tiger and Bulldog have annually renewed their test of power.

Princeton and Yale engaged in their first gridiron battle in 1873. After 1873 there was a lapse of three years, and since then the game between these two universities has become an annual event.

Yale has twenty victories to her credit, Princeton nine, while seven were tied. A list of the games played by the two elevens is as follows:

1876, Yale, 2 goals; Princeton, 0. 1877, Yale, 2 touchdowns; Princeton, 0. 1878, Princeton, 1 goal; Yale, 0. 1879, Yale, 2 safeties; Princeton, 5 safeties. 1880, Yale, 5 safeties; Princeton, 11 safeties. 1881, Yale, 0; Princeton, 0. 1882, Yale, 2 goals 1 safety; Princeton, 1 goal 1 safety. 1883, Yale, 1 goal; Princeton, 0. 1884, Yale, 1 goal; Princeton, 1 touchdown. 1885, Yale, 1 goal from touchdown; Yale, 1 goal from field. 1886, Yale, 1 touchdown; Princeton, 0. 1887, Yale, 2 goals; Princeton, 0. 1888, Yale, 2 goals; Princeton, 0. 1889, Princeton, 1 goal, 1 touchdown; Yale, 0. 1890, Yale, 35 points; Princeton, 0. 1891, Yale, 2 goals 2 touchdowns; Princeton, 0. 1892, Yale, 2 goals; Princeton, 0. 1893, Princeton, 1 goal; Yale, 0. 1894, Yale, 24; Princeton, 0. 1895, Yale, 20; Princeton, 10. 1896, Princeton, 24; Yale, 6. 1897, Yale, 0; Princeton, 0. 1898, Princeton, 6; Yale, 0. 1899, Princeton, 11; Yale, 10. 1900, Yale, 39; Princeton, 5. 1901, Yale, 12; Princeton, 9. 1902, Yale, 12; Princeton, 6. 1903, Princeton, 11; Yale, 6. 1904, Yale, 12; Princeton, 0. 1905, Yale, 23; Princeton, 4. 1906, Yale, 0; Princeton, 0. 1907, Yale, 12; Princeton, 19. 1908, Yale, 14; Princeton, 5. 1909, Yale, 17; Princeton, 0. 1910, Yale, 6; Princeton, 3.

The coming game should prove to be the meeting of two good defensive teams, and that means under the present rules a standoff to all intents and purposes. It is the probability of this matching of defense against defense that leads me to the belief that both teams will resort to drop or place kicking whenever the opportunity offers. Captain Howe of Yale and Pendleton and Farr of Princeton are so dependable under ordinary conditions that it seems necessary only to bring them within striking distance. I shall be surprised if either eleven attempts a march over the goal line. The teams are too evenly matched for that sort of thing, and with kickers of about the same caliber it would seem to be the better plan to rely upon field goals for victory.

Both teams have suffered from numerous injuries to the players since the start of the season, but it is expected that the full strength of the elevens will be pitted against each other in the coming battle.

Yale will depend much on the ability of Captain Howe. He is the pivot around which hangs Yale's destiny this year in the game with Princeton. With Howe in, Yale has an excellent chance to win, but with him out it is questionable.

For the Tiger men Pendleton will be the mainspring. The brilliant halfback is expected to be the whole show against Yale. Last year the wearers of the Blue smothered Pendleton's plays, but Princeton men figure the experience he gained in that game will greatly benefit him in the coming battle. All things sized up, there seems to be little difference in strength between Princeton and Yale teams.

NOTE SOLELY TO UNITED STATES

Turkey's Reference to Tripoli Massacre for Us Alone.

CHESTER'S TRIP IS RESPONSE

Formal Reply of United States Is Received and Is Satisfactory—Cruiser After Information at First Hand.

London, Nov. 8.—Turkey's note with reference to the Tripoli massacre was addressed solely to the United States, so a Turkish official told the New York Sun correspondent.

Turkey was satisfied from the previous attitude of Europe that it was useless to appeal to the concert of nations.

The official said that the dispatch of the United States scout cruiser Chester to Tripoli was in response to the note, but declined to give the note's contents. He explained that America's independence of the European situation and the part she had taken in the Russo-Japanese war constituted the reason for Turkey's appeal.

He declared that the response of the United States had been received, was satisfactory, and that there was optimism at Constantinople over the result.

It was said that the Chester was to ascertain from the American consuls and others the facts regarding the massacre and it was expected that the commander's report would be communicated to other nations. It was denied that the action of Turkey indicated that Turkey desired mediation in the sense of accepting the loss of Tripoli. The official added that 100,000 Turks and Arabs would invest the Tripoli littoral, probably within a week.

CHESTER AT TRIPOLI

United States Scout Cruiser Sails for Marseilles.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The cruiser Chester spent several hours at Tripoli and later sailed for Marseilles. Commander Decker of the Chester got in communication with John Q. Wood, American consul there.

Although officers of the state department will not admit it, it is believed the trip of the Chester to Tripoli was primarily for the purpose of obtaining a report from Consul Wood upon the alleged atrocities committed by the Italian troops in the present war with Turkey.

Fall Kills Mrs. Havemeyer.

New York, Nov. 8.—Mrs. James Havemeyer, a daughter-in-law of William Frederick Havemeyer, three times mayor of New York, fell from the window of her apartments at 401 West End avenue and was instantly killed. Mrs. Havemeyer, who had been an invalid, had been left alone by her nurse.

STATEMENT FROM ALLEGED SLAYER

Mrs. Vermilya, Accused Chicago Poisoner, Breaks Silence.

WILL EXHUME NO MORE BODIES

Prisoner and Her Attorney Confer and Prosecution Looks Up Several Leads Which Promise Developments.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Louise Vermilya, charged with the murder of Policeman Arthur Hissone and suspected of having knowledge of nine other sudden deaths in a poison mystery, broke her silence and made the first statement to the public.

After conferring with her counsel, Joseph Burres, she said:

"When I become stronger I will give a full and detailed statement concerning all of the deaths which took place in my house."

"I am sure there will be no arsenic found in the viscera of either Richard T. Smith, or my son, Frank Brinkamp."

"All these insinuations that have been made by the police and coroner to the effect that I got any benefits from the death of these persons are falsehoods. It is true I was a solicitor in the Home Guard. I will admit that C. C. Boyesen, the undertaker, has been a friend of mine. It is true we have had business relations. I will explain away all the charges that have been made concerning him and me. I do not fear the end, for I am innocent."

While the prisoner and her attorney were arranging a conference Coroner Peter M. Hoffman, Assistant State's Attorney Burnham and Captain Harding were reviewing the evidence for the state.

For the present no more bodies will be exhumed, according to the coroner, at least not this week.

"I have several leads that haven't yet been followed up and intend to devote my time for several days to assisting Captain Harding in following them up. I want to put two and two together and see what they look like," said the coroner.

"The causes of death given in the death certificates of some of the cases associated with Mrs. Vermilya require inquiry."

Information Furnished by Police of Chicago.

Greek Prince, Lecturer, Avers He Saw Man in Doctor's Room on Night of Murder.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Prince Constantinos Paleologos, a Greek lecturer, was interrogated by the Chicago police at the request of the Indianapolis authorities in connection with the murder or suicide of Dr. Helene Knabe, who was found dead with her throat cut in her apartment in Indianapolis, Oct. 27, 1911. He was found lecturing in a hall at North Wabash avenue and East Randolph street.

Prince Paleologos formerly lived in Indianapolis and was there at the time of the killing.

"About 10:30 o'clock, the night that Dr. Knabe was killed," the prince told Lieutenant Larkin, "I was mailing a letter across the street from my apartment," Prince Paleologos said. "I saw two women in the apartment and what appeared to me to be the form of a man leaning back in a chair with his back toward the window. That is all I can say. I could not identify anybody."

The police have forwarded this information to Indianapolis.

MISS EARLING ELOPES

Niece of Railway President Married to Adolph Hoppe at Racine, Wis.

Milwaukee, Nov. 8.—Adine Earling and Milwaukee rode from Milwaukee to Racine in an auto, obtained a special dispensation from a judge and in a few minutes were man and wife.

Miss Earling is the daughter of Emil J. Earling and niece of A. J. Earling, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. Mr. Hoppe is a member of the Smith-Hoppe Automobile company of this city.

NEGRO HITS WHITE; LYNCHED

Mississippi Crowd Riddles Victim Seized from Sheriff's Hands.

Meridian, Miss., Nov. 8.—"Judge" Medley, a negro, was taken from Deputy Sheriff Brown near Lockhart by a mob of about 400 persons and lynched. The negro's body was bullet riddled.

Moseley assaulted J. K. Covington, white, with a stick at Lockhart.

Hunter Accidentally Killed.

Oscoda, Mich., Nov. 8.—Bernace Orr was killed in a hunting accident at Hardy. He had just cleaned a gun for another member of his party and handed it back when it was discharged, the ball striking him and inflicting a wound which caused death a few minutes later.

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. No woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for her self. Of course nearly every woman now, adays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right up to this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplained thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childrenless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Danger From House Dust.
A statement issued recently by the National Association For the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis speaks of the dangers from house dust, especially in rooms that are not well ventilated. The association warns against dry sweeping and the use of the feather duster or other devices that scatter but do not take up the dust. Since the ordinary dust blown about in the streets is impregnated with disease germs, the national association urges the adoption of methods that will prevent the further dissemination of such bacilli. It also urges for fall and winter more open windows and more fresh air in house, shop and schoolroom.

Pretty High Hills.

A distinguished astronomer once took the trouble to measure in several paintings the size of the moon and to deduce from it the height of the mountains shown in the same picture. He found that the average height of the hills was about forty-three miles, while one giant peak raised its head more than a hundred miles above sea level. Turner, who was one of the greatest masters of landscape composition and coloring, frequently exaggerates the height of his hills with the intention of conferring upon them a majesty which otherwise they would not possess.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

CONCERNING COMPANY G.

Editor Dixon Telegraph:

On the 6th and 7th there appeared in the People's Column of a local paper articles concerning Co. G, I. N. G., of this city. The first article that appeared, on the 6th, was written by a well-wisher of the company and by someone who is acquainted with military affairs. The second article was in the opposite strain and was somewhat misleading. I think it is time some member of the organization in question took a hand in the argument and state facts that may enlighten the public.

Many people do not regard the national guard in the right light. They do not realize what a stupendous thing it is and that a company of national guardsmen located in a town the size of Dixon is in a measure beneficial. The national guard of today is in reality a part of the standing army of our country as the Citizen of Illinois stated in his article. The men who enlist have to undergo examination that is most rigid, therefore making the personnel of the companies high in physical standard. Thus the best types of young manhood of the locality are on the rolls of the company. These men know that when they become members of the national guard they are open to call at any time and to any place in the world and can be called out by the president of the United States as well as by the governor of the state. They realize that they must be soldiers in every way if they are to belong to the organization.

In regard to the local company. In the first place the state of Illinois has spent thousands of dollars in this city since the company was organized here. This money has been spent in yearly allowances and has circulated in local channels. Since the reorganization Co. G has been considered the star company of the 6th regiment and there is no better regiment in the state than the old Sixth. The Dixon boys have received many honors at camp and one year there were 13 men from the local camp that were detailed to special duty at camp. These duties were such as required intelligence, like clerkships, etc. In numbers the local company has been among the leaders. The smallest company that has gone to camp since 1905 was this year's company.

"A Reader" in his article closes from an interview which a newspaper man had with Capt. Angle of the Sixth regiment while at camp last summer in this city. Capt. Angle's purported statement that it was not necessary to maintain a standing membership of more than 50 men is entirely wrong and the captain was without exact knowledge if he made such a statement. Capt. Angle has been regimental quartermaster of the Sixth for many years and has nothing whatever to do with military affairs of the national guard except as pertains to issuing and accounting of equipment of the regiment with which he is connected. Therefore he can not be quoted as an authority. It is a fact that all companies are expected to maintain a company of full strength if possible, which means between 70 and 80 men. This company must show a certain grade of efficiency in all departments of military tactics and also be careful of their equipment. Each company of the national guard receives three inspections during the winter months. One by their colonel and a state and national inspection officer also. These two inspectors are regular army men and they are rigid in their examinations. They take in the general appearance of the men and the armory as well as the personal equipment of the men. To pass these tests successfully means a great deal of conscientious work on the part of the officers and men. The local company has always ranked well in these inspections and have in that way been an honor to the city. Now why should citizens of this city try to undermine and work against one of the best advertisements the city has. Last summer's encampment is an example of what the national guardsmen have done for Dixon. It was directly due to the efforts of certain officers of the guard who live in the city that the camp was secured. The working man who feels hard toward the national guardsmen are not good citizens, for the national guard stands for law and order and because they are called out to stop the destruction of property by strikers is not a reason for patriotic men to rail at them. Most of the national guardsmen have to work hard for their daily bread and they also feel the need of our country for men who are prepared to fall in line at a minute's call to protect their women and children.

HARMON AND MILITARY ACADEMY THE GAME

The football game played last Saturday between the Rock River Military Academy and the Harmon high school at Harmon, resulted in an even break, neither side being able to score. Although out-weighted nearly twenty pounds to the man, the Harmon boys put up a game fight, considering the fact that all of the Harmon players are new men; but by their speed and team work managed to keep their opponents a safe distance from their goal line.

Particular mention may be given to Herbert Gephart, fullback, for his fleet long end runs and brilliant tackling, in which he proved himself a star in the game.

While the game was warmly contested on both sides, the boys played throughout the four quarters without wrangling or discord, all demeaning themselves in a very creditable manner.

At the close of the game the boys were taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross and where the 30 players were given an oyster supper which was a great treat to the young athletes.

Much credit devolves upon Coach Gehant, former North Dixon guard and tackle, for putting out such efficient men in the team in the field in the short time given in training. In addition to coaching the football team he has organized a basketball team which he will put in shape for the winter games.

WAS BURNED WHEN ENGINE BLEW UP

WILLIAM HATCHER PAINFULLY BUT NOT SERIOUSLY HURT ON DUBOIS FARM.

Wm. Hatcher, who is employed with the Ulrich threshing gang, was painfully, but not seriously, hurt on Saturday afternoon when the traction engine used by the gang blew up. The accident happened at the DuBois farm, southeast of this city, and was caused by the boiler going dry.

The men, who are employed by the Amboy contractor, had been working at the place several days. They were hurrying to get through a certain amount of work Saturday afternoon and in the haste the boiler went dry. Carelessly the man in charge started to pump cold water into the heated boiler, the result being the bursting of the boiler plates.

Steam and boiling water were thrown onto the men about the engine, and Hatcher was burned about the head and face. He also received minor cuts about the head from flying iron. However, his injuries are not serious. The engine, of course, is out of commission and cannot be used for some time.

Expert Opinions.

The supposed conversation of three Dixon bachelors afforded considerable fun. It is related that Harry Edwards, John Crabtree and Harry Warner were standing on the corner discussing the subject of matrimony. It is said that Harry Edwards went to his wife to be like the bible, seldom looked at John Crabtree, it is rumored, wanted his wife to be like a piano—upright and grand. Harry Warner is alleged to have said he thought a wife ought to be like a calendar—a new one every year.

Deacon Pringle went into A. Jones barber shop the other evening to get his hair cut and went to sleep in the chair and forgot to take his coonskin cap off and Am who is near sighted, clipped it close to the lining and when the deacon wiggled his head while getting shaved the cap slipped and Am thought the deacon had been skulped. The deacon always cut his own hair until Am began taking the Police Gazette.

Out to Hi Hiller's place the other night there was quite a swell huskin' bee and a pleasant time was had by all. There was only three fights. Hank Purk busted a neckyode over Hod Jones' head and Hi Hiller got sore and said some folks was mighty free in bustin' other people's neckyodes, and then Hank hit Hi one for luck and Hi's oldest son jumped in and hit his pa by mistake and they upset the cider bar! and ruined a brand new gown for Miss Lullie Pringle and that made Elihu Tibbitts sore and he said there wasn't a gentleman in the place and Lufe Higgins took offense at that and made a pass at Elihu but missed him and caught Wm. Tibbitts the side of the ear which was rather embarrassing as Lufe is courting Miss Pansy Tibbitts and Miss Pansy screamed and fainted away and Old Man Lucas, who rushed to her assistance, stepped through a hay hole in the floor of the barn and fell into a stall occupied by Hi's mule Daisy. And Daisy lifted Old Lucas so high that when he landed he was half way home and he had to walk the rest of the way on his hands as he lost his wooden leg somehow. And then when things quieted down Lufe Higgins set down on a pumpkin pie and ruined the bosom of his tuxedo trousers and remained seated the rest of the evening. The party broke up in the wee small hours and the next morning Ezra Smith woke up about noon with a head as big as a bag of oats and no sort of recollection of where he had been. Hi Hiller says by ginkerpop he is going to do his own huskin' in the future as his wife missed nine spoons and someone got away with a fine nickel plated bride that was hangin' in the barn. Constable Binks is the only one who is not under suspicion as he was not present.

DIXON DISGUSTED WITH DAVENPORT

FOOTBALL OFFICIAL OF THAT CITY HAS SOMETHING TO LEARN

Dixon College journeyed to Davenport, Ia., Saturday where they met and were defeated by St. Ambrose 9 to 0. It was a game full of thrills and sensations, but these thrills and sensations were not caused by the players, but by a person by the name of McManus, who was selected by himself to referee. Just before the game started, the great Mr. McManus called the Dixon players around him, throwing out his chest, and stating that he would not stand for dirty ball or any ungentlemanlike tactics. Before the game had progressed two minutes Mr. McManus demonstrated to all present that he was not only referee but umpire, field judge, and head line man, in fact, he was the whole show.

Before going further into details about the game and the great McManus, who by the way, has been coaching St. Ambrose, let the writer of this article take his readers back a few years to the great robbery committed on the Northwestern railroad at tower W. This robbery was planned and executed finely and is without parallel in this part of the country. Yet, as bold and daring as it was, it can not be compared with the work of the great "I Am McManus," last Saturday. From the beginning, it was as plain as the nose on your face that McManus was there to win the game by hook or crook, and he surely carried out his intentions. A few minutes after the game started in the second period, Dixon through the great work of Wingle, carried the ball to St. Ambrose' 10-yard line from where Fingle went over for a touch down. Right here the great McManus got in his best work, instead of calling the supposed foul at once, he waited to see if Fingle would score and after he had, this individual, McManus, called the ball back and penalized Dixon for not having seven men on the line, when the fact of the matter was, Dixon had eight men on the line of scrimmage. This tool the heart out of every Dixon man, and from that time on they never had a show with McManus, for every time Dixon would get within scoring distance, McManus, the great, would penalize them. He could see things that not another soul on the grounds could see.

In the third period, a Dixon official, acting in the capacity of field judge, called a foul on one of the St. Ambrose players. This player, in his mean and contemptible way, no doubt followed the instructions of his coach, McManus, and told the Dixon official to go to hell. The Dixon officials promptly called the attention of McManus to the fact. The boy admitted making the statement. Applying the rule laid down by the great McManus just before the start of the game, and giving the offending player all due credit, he was not entitled to participate in the game further, but the only thing the great McManus said or did, was this: "If you do that again I will put you out of the game. McManus at this point was umpire, and it did not come under his jurisdiction, but that made no difference to McManus, because it was self-evident that he was there to referee, umpire, and everything else. Had a Dixon boy been unfortunate enough to lose his temper and let slip the above remark he no doubt, would have been escorted off the field by the police. But the St. Ambrose team and the great McManus in their own estimation, were infallible.

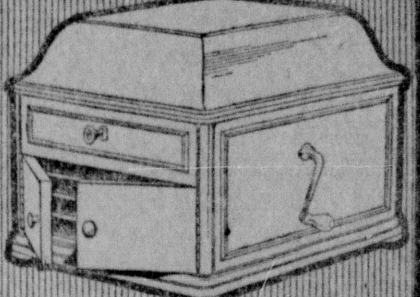

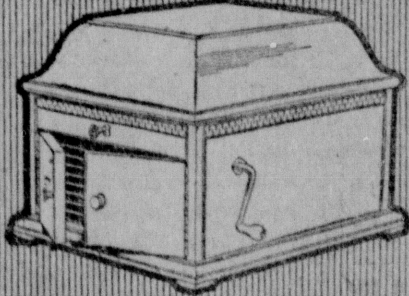

Working under such conditions, Dixon played a wonderful game. In the third period Dixon again carried the ball to St. Ambrose' 15 yard line where St. Ambrose held. Fingle dropped back to try a goal from the field which was partly blocked, the ball rolled to St. A. 6-yard line where a Dixon man fell on it. With only six yards to go in three downs it looked easy for Dixon, but the great McManus again called the ball back and penalized Dixon for off side. This was so rotten that the spectators put their hands over their noses, it was so foul. In Shakespeare's great tragedy, "Macbeth," the latter goes to a cave where three witches are supposed to dwell, and Macbeth goes there for information I regard to his enemies. Information in regard to his enemies. An apparition of an armed head arises and says, "Macbeth, Macbeth, beware of MacDuff. The author of this article has only to say to football teams going to play St. Ambrose at Davenport: Football teams, football teams, beware of McManus.

Morrissey played a great game for St. Ambrose, in fact, he played the whole game. Beside making the only touchdown in the game that was allowed, by the great Ki Kye, McManus, he made a beautiful place kick from the 20-yard line. Fingle starred for Dixon but he was pressed hard by Muelenberg, who played a wonderful game at St. Ambrose.

After the game Athletic Director M. J. Gannon, Jr., had a long talk with Athletic Director Father O'Neil of St. Ambrose who by the way is a splendid gentleman and a credit to any institution. Father O'Neil admitted to Mr. Gannon that it was no place for McManus to referee or even officiate in any capacity, and he expressed profound regret that the Dixon boys were dissatisfied with the treatment they received at the hands of McManus.

Dixon has three games remaining on the schedule, they play DePaul at Chicago, November 11, Loyola at Chicago November 18 and the Chicago Veterinary college at Dixon on Thanksgiving Day. The Chicago Veterinary team has played such team as Loyola, DePaul, Lake Forest, holding them to a very close score. A great game is anticipated for

EVENTS CROWD IN M'NAMARA CASES

Jury Box Filled and Peremptory Challenges Begin.

FEDERAL JUDGE GETS EVIDENCE

State Court Had Ordered State Sheriff to Hold Same, Pending Decision by State Supreme Court.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 8. — Thick and fast come important developments in the McNamara case. The twelfth juror has been seated, the box filled, the peremptory challenges began. The state exercised two and rested. The defense exhausted five and reserved the right to spend more. Five men remained in the box when court adjourned.

In Indianapolis Judge Anderson of the federal court ordered federal marshals to seize the books, papers and physical evidence which a state judge had ordered a state sheriff to hold until the state supreme court had decided on an appeal taken by counsel of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association. In two hours the federal court had the evidence.

When Joseph Ford, assistant district attorney here, heard the news he said: "Good, I am glad of it."

In the near future, probably next week, the defense will file another petition for the removal of the present trial from Judge Bordwell's court.

CAN'T READ THEIR LIPS.

When Actors Do Not Face the Audience It Bothers the Deaf.

"Time and time again we're asked to have our actors face the audience squarely when speaking lines that are of great importance," a theatrical manager said recently. "The explanation for the request is generally the same—that deaf people in the audience who depend on lip reading rather than hearing lose the run of the play if some important lines are spoken by a person whose lips can't be read. An actor or actress who's stuck on posing in profile is always the despair of the deaf people in the audience, as they say it's almost impossible to read lips in profile."

"Out ticket agent hears another side of the same question. People tell him when buying tickets that some one in the party is stone deaf and must read the lips of the actors in order to follow the play. Then they ask him on which side of the theater these particular seats should be located to make this lip reading the most satisfactory. Often the stage-setting decides which way the actors must face, and if a deaf person gets on the wrong side of the house the play is practically lost."—New York Sun.

AIDED THE REVOLT

The Destruction of Portland, Me., in Colonial Days.

ACT OF AN ENGLISH OFFICER.

A Royalist Woman's Wiles Caused the Annihilation of the City and Saved Portsmouth, N. H., For Which Portland's Fate Had Been Planned.

One of the causes of the Revolutionary war, and quite as important a one as the stamp act, was the wanton destruction of the city of Portland, Me., then part of the town of Falmouth.

It was said that the patriots might have forgiven Lexington and Concord, but that the razing of this town, which had been peaceably inclined until then, incensed the colonies beyond measure. One prompt result was the immediate formation of a Maine regiment which was added to the meager forces of the Continental army.

Not so generally known, however, is the tradition that it was due to the fascinations of a beautiful woman that Portland was destroyed and another town preserved.

When the British commander, Captain Mowatt, on board his flagship, the Canoe, anchored with his fleet in Portland's inner harbor, he did not reveal to her citizens that the unscrupulous little god of love had been his pilot. Instead, on a bright October morning in 1775, he ran up the royal ensign on his fleet and at 9 o'clock began a bombardment that lasted uninterruptedly until 6 o'clock at night. Portland was unprepared for such a visitation, and there was no attempt at defense. The inhabitants simply swarming the streets with their ox carts and horses and attempting to seek safety by flight to the open country back from the water front.

So close did the assailing vessels approach that under cover of the bombardment they landed sailors who perched the town, setting fire to such buildings as had escaped damage from hot shot and exploding bombs. Before Captain Mowatt had completed the sacrifice he desired to lay before love's shrine three-quarters of the town was totally destroyed, including the municipal buildings, churches, public library, fire engine houses, warehouses, wharfs and shipping.

All that he left was a handful of the poorer hovels, every residence of importance being bombarded or set on fire and 5,000 inhabitants left shelterless at the approach of winter. To make it practically certain that aid could not come to the seaport by water he destroyed all but one wharf and took with him on his departure all the vessels anchored in the harbor that had been spared from the torch.

Truly he had a glorious boudoir and in explanation he exhibited instructions which read: "Come opposite the town with all possible expedition, and there burn, sink and destroy," but the gossip of the time said that these orders originally related to Portsmouth, N. H., and that it was due to a woman that they were not carried out as written.

Captain Mowatt and his fleet had anchored off Portsmouth harbor some time previously to his assault upon Portland, and while there he had gone quietly on shore and secretly visited the family of the royalist or Tory, as the colonists called them, Nathaniel Sparhawk.

Nathaniel had a daughter, a girl of eighteen, famed the country round for her beauty as her father was famed for his obnoxious loyalty to King George, and when the sailor captain saw her he proved an easy conquest like most sailors where pretty women are concerned, and he found it necessary to be rowed from his ship many times in order to spend the evenings with attractive Mary Sparhawk.

Her wit, beauty and brilliancy of conversation fascinated him and through her influence, it is said, the intention of bombarding Portsmouth was abandoned, and Portland suffered in the stead of the town which held the charming little loyalist.

So what one historian termed "a wanton, indefensible assault upon an undefended and peaceful city" came about through a woman's smile, and every volley from the fifty guns of Mowatt's fleet doubtless carried his thoughts back to the lass who had won his heart. The smoldering wharfs and the flaming houses were his burnt offering to his ladylove.

The Sparhawk house, where the captain lost his heart still stands; but, alas, the romance ended as so many romances do, for after the Revolution was over the fair and fascinating belle married a physician and a patriot.—Detroit Free Press.

THE SILVER BOWL.

It Was Full of Water, and It Puzzled the Week End Guest.

A rising young politician in New York tells this story on himself. He was invited recently to spend a week end at a country house where things were done a notch or two more elaborately than he was accustomed to, and he stood in not a little awe of the solemn person who was assigned to act as temporary valet to him. The climax came when this functionary tapped at his door on Sunday morning and told him it was 8 o'clock.

"All right, I'll get up," said the visitor, and the solemn man disappeared into the bathroom, from which presently the noise of water running into the bathtub was audible. In half a minute more the solemn person emerged, holding a large silver bowl full of water, with which he approached the bed.

"He must have seen the astonishment in my face," said the New Yorker. "I couldn't conceal it. It was a wholly new game to me, and I didn't know whether I was expected to dip my head in it or to drink it. It was an awful moment, but that man was a diplomat. He realized my embarrassment, and he just let drop in a cold and aloof tone, as if he had outsiders to deal with every day, the simple explanation:

"The temperature of your bathwater, sir."—New York Sun.

STATE LOTTERIES.

Rise and Fall of a Tremendous Gamble in England.

STARTED UNDER QUEEN BESS

The First One Was "Without Any Blanks, Containing Good Prices, as Well of Reddy Money as of Plate and Certain Sorts of Marchandizes."

Though it is certain that the custom of holding lotteries was practiced in European countries as far back as the middle of the fifteenth century, it seems that this particular idea was unknown in England until more than 100 years later. The lottery, in fact, appears to have been included among those many other important things, both good and bad, that were introduced to public notice during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, it being her majesty's express command that this ready means for "raising the wind" on behalf of the state finances was adopted.

The first English lottery must have taken a good deal of arranging, owing, no doubt, to the fact that the people of that day required a certain amount of education in this form of gambling, for although the idea was first brought forward in the year 1556 (in Mary's reign), the actual drawing did not take place until three years later.

One of the original bills of Queen Elizabeth's lottery has fortunately been preserved, printed in black letter and measuring five feet in length and one and one-half feet wide. It begins by announcing "A very rich Lotterie Generall, without any blanks, containing a number of good prices (sic), as well of redy money as of plate and certain sorts of marchandizes, having ben valued and priced by the commandement of the Queene's most excellent majesty, by men expert and skilful," and goes on to say that "the same lotterie is erected by her majesties order to the intent that such commodity as may chance to arise thereof, after the charges borne, may be converted towards the reparation of the havens and strength of the Realme and toward such other publique good workes." There were something like 30,000 prizes in this gigantic venture, of which the first was of the value of £5,000, while the entrance fee was only "two shillings and six pence."

James I. lent his "speciall favour" to a lottery whose object was "the present plantation of English colonies in Virginia," the prizes consisting of £5,000 in money, "besides rewards of casualitie," the tickets being drawn "in a new built house at the west end of Paul's the 29th of June, 1612." This lottery does not, however, appear to have been very popular, although we are assured by the historian that it was "plainly carried and honestly performed," for owing to the want of "biling uppe the number of lots there were taken out and throwne away threescore thousand blankes without abating any one prize," certainly a very generous proceeding on the part of the promoters. The lucky man on this occasion was Thomas Sharpliffe, "a Taylor of London," who won the first prize of "four thousand Crownes in fayre plate, which was sent to his house in a very statelie manner." Though to some extent poorly patronized, this lottery appears to have evoked a good deal of interest among the important personages of the day, for we are told that "during the whole tyme of the drawing there were alwaies present divers worshipfull Knights and Esquires, accompanied with sundry graue discret Citizens."

As time went on lotteries for every conceivable purpose were held in London and other important towns, with the inevitable result that trouble constantly arose between the promoters and those of the ticket holders who happened to be unlucky or thought they had been unfairly treated, as no doubt many of them were. We find, therefore, that periodical orders were issued for the suppression of this form of gambling, though the law does not seem to have had any great effect. At last, however, any one proposing to hold a lottery was obliged to send in a petition to the king, and in Charles II's reign we find mention of several such applications. One of these was for "the ransom of English slaves in Tunis, Algiers or the Turkish galleys or for any other charitable use," the promoter making it a bargain that after he had paid in a third of the profits he should reserve the rest for his own expenses and "the repair of his fortunes, ruined by loyalty."

Lottery offices for the sale of tickets were established all over the country as time went on, but none was more famous than the agency of one Rish, who flourished at the beginning of the nineteenth century. This enterprising individual, whose chief offices were in Cornhill and at Charing Cross, must have made a considerable fortune out of the much safer business of selling tickets than taking them. But his prosperous career, as also that of his fellows, came to an abrupt end when the lottery act was passed in 1823, by which it was provided that after the drawing of the state lottery for that year there were to be no more of them.—London Globe.

Happiness.

That all who are happy are equally happy is not true. A peasant and a philosopher may be equally satisfied, but not equally happy. Happiness consists in the multiplicity of agreeable consciousness. A peasant has not capacity for having equal happiness with a philosopher.—Johnson.

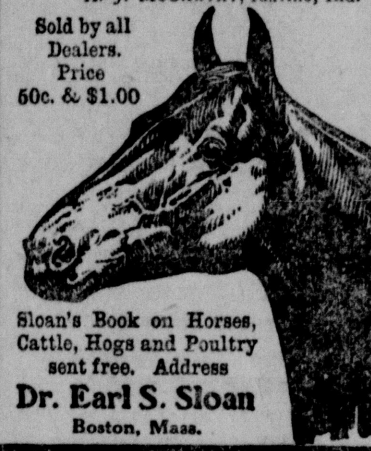

Stops Lameness

Sloan's Liniment is a reliable remedy for any kind of horse lameness. Will kill the growth of spavin, curb or splint, absorb enlargements, and is excellent for swellings, fistula and thrush.

Here's Proof.
"I used Sloan's Liniment on a mare for 'high lameness,' and cured her. I am never without a bottle of your liniment; have bought more of it than any other remedy for pains." Harry Kuey, Cassidy, Ky.
"Sloan's Liniment is the best made. I have removed very large shoe boils off a horse with it. I have killed a quarter crack on a mare that was awfully bad. I have also healed raw, sore necks on three horses. I have healed grease heal on a mare that could hardly walk."
ANTHONY G. HYER, Oakland, Pa., Route No. 1.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is good for all farm stock.
"My hogs had hog cholera three days before we got your liniment, which I was advised to try. I have used it now for three days and my hogs are almost well. One hog died before I got the liniment, but I have not lost any since."
A. J. MCCARTHY, Idaville, Ind.

Too Late.
Mr. P. drove up in a hansom and entered the jeweler's shop accompanied by his valet, who carried an oblong box of steel. Mr. B. asked for a private interview, and on being shown into the office he opened the box, exposing a splendid array of diamond and pearl necklaces, earrings, tiaras and rings.

"Mrs. B.," he said, "is now abroad. Before she returns I want you to extract these stones and replace them with good imitations, selling the real jewels and giving me the money. This, of course, is to be a confidential transaction. Mrs. B. is to know nothing of it."

"My dear sir," said the jeweler, "I should be glad to do as you ask, but it is impossible. Two years ago Mrs. B. called here on the same errand that I now brings you, and this errand in her case was successful. The paste jewels that you offer me are worth little more than the hire of the hansom awaiting you outside."—London Tit-Bits.

Thackeray and Colonel Newcome.
Mr. Louis Melville tells a characteristic story of Thackeray's fondness for his greatest hero. "It was outside 'Evangelist' he writes, 'that Lowell, being on a visit to London, met the novelist looking so haggard and worn that he asked if he were ill. 'Come inside, and I'll tell you all about it,' said the latter. 'I have killed the colonel.' At a table in a quiet corner Thackeray took the manuscript from his pocket and read the chapter that records the death of Colonel Newcome. When he came to the end the tears that had been swelling his lids trickled down his face, and the last word was almost an inarticulate sob."—London Chronicle.

CAN'T CURE CATARRH

Stomach Dosing, Sprays and Douches Have All Failed
There is only one way to cure catarrh.

Reach the raw, tender, inflamed membrane that is infected with catarrh germs, and destroy the germs. You can't reach the nooks and crevices with liquid preparations—there is only one way—breathe the antiseptic germ killing air of HY-OMEI (pronounce it High-o-mei) directly over the infected parts.

HYOMEI contains no opium, cocaine or other harmful drugs, it is made of Australian eucalyptus. It is guaranteed to end the misery of catarrh, asthma, croup and bronchitis, or money back.

Ask Rowland Bros. about the HY-OMEI outfit today. They sell it for only $1.00 and guarantee it.

GIANT CORN OF JALA

It Grows So Tall That It Has to Be Seen to Be Believed.

About where the 104th meridian west from Greenwich intersects latitude 21 degrees 15 minutes north is the Vale of Jala, in the prefecture of Ahuacatlan, Tepic. Its chief town is the village of Jala, and although like Auburn it is the loveliest of the plain, its fame does not rest on its undeniable beauty alone but also on the fact that there is garnered year after year one of the most wonderful crops in the world—the giant corn of Jala.

From immemorial time—ages perhaps before the first Phoenician galley, adventuring for traffic, sighted the unknown coasts of the Iberian peninsula—the aboriginal farmers of the Vale of Jala, whoever they may have been, were wont to gather about the second day of August as time is computed now to celebrate the sacred feast of the giant green corn at the foot of majestic Ceboruco, that slumbering volcanic presence which yet mutters in its uneasy sleep. To this day the industrious husbandmen of that fair valley meet for the same purpose on the same day, now venerated and Christianized into "La Fiesta de la Nuestra Señora de los Angeles"—the feast of Our Lady of the Angels.

These same farmers, the Jala Indians, are ever busy about something, and when not engaged in pottering about among their endless crops—for it is a perpetual performance at Jala—they are finding plenty for their adroit hands to do making wonderful plaited leather bridges or busy with some other cunning handicraft which has made them famous.

The great valley of Ixtlan, with the mighty Sierras north and south, is divided into two narrow valleys by the vast bulk of the extinct volcano Ceboruco, said to be forty-two miles in circumference at its base, a perfect cone—4,280 feet above the level of the valley—except for the serrated edges of the crater. While extinct in the sense that it is not in violent eruption, this venerable mountain has had an epic history in the ages of the past, as attested by lava masses of trachyte, basalt and augite for miles around, and even now it groans and grunts at times and emits clouds of smoke and showers of ashes and cinders, so its neighbors say.

Full well those neighbors, the Jala Indians, know old Ceboruco and admire it. They probably worshipped it before the padres came, for they know that the unequalled fertility of their ancestral vale of Jala is due to these showers of ashes with which it enriches them from time to time, and that their giant corn, found nowhere else in all the land, is a direct gift from it.

This incredible corn needs to be seen to be believed, and it would be a reckless man and careless of public esteem who would risk his character for veracity by giving accurate measurements, made on the ground, both of plant and ears. With much perturbation, therefore, a few experimental partly grown ears and a minimum series of measurements made from specimens brought from average field crops were sent to the Agricultural Department at Washington, and that institution was so astounded by the evidence of its own eyes that it did not recover enough to acknowledge receipt of this prepaid gratuity for weeks after the fact; but bless their dear souls, they did respond after a while, and more by token—for generosity is epidemic at times, if not contagious—they did follow the lead, and sent a last year's blue book—and it must weigh two pounds if it does an ounce.

They are nice, amiable gentlemen, though, and it's the duty of every expatriated patriot to send some corn back to his fatherland if he finds that he can't come back and bring his sheaves with him.

The statement is risked, speaking of the enormity of the height of the plant, that few of the growing ears could be reached by an average sized citizen of the corn belt of Illinois without a stepladder or some other factitious aid, and the stalks bear two or three ears, nearly every one of them.

These stalks are large, very large—never mind how large—and many of the humble folk of the village use them in the construction of their jacals, as they call the huts in which they live, placing them close together in vertical arrangement to form the side walls.

The ears are extremely long and rather small in diameter for their length and ought to make ideal "roasting ears, for there are such ideals if you have been trained right. The grains are enormous and the rows are beautifully filled out to the end. The ears hang down by a long stalk and it is apparent even to an amateur corn admirer that the giant corn of Jala is a type by itself, if not a separate species.

If memory is not at fault, the late Prof. Budd, professor emeritus at the Agricultural College at Ames, Ia., quotes an authority too (and the supposititious discoverer, so some people say, of "Tamy Jim Wilson," as he is lovingly known in Iowa, among many other strange genera and species), held to the theory that corn is a native of certain west Mexican altitudes. If this is true—and who ever saw any wild corn in the United States?—why should it not differentiate in its own habitat into a radically different species?

If those versed in such things, but who do not fancy the lone, high trail, muleback, will wait a little while they may visit the Vale of Jala in comfort and see the giant corn for themselves, for Harriman's new West Coast Railway is being built as fast as it reasonably can down from Sinaloa and will pass very near to that charming and at present terra desconocida—the Vale of Jala.

THE INTENSIVE GARDEN.

Lessons From Small Plots Cultivated by French and Belgians.

If we would live by gardening we must study the ways of gardening. It was a shrewd old English farmer who used to say to his sons, "Put the horse to and let us drive round and see what other people are after."

The French market gardeners about Paris are the most skillful growers in the world—except the Chinese—and the average garden of an acre or two "tilled to the eyebrows," as they say, shows the following returns, given by our Consuls and business men interested in the matter: "There are of course exceptions, where the total income from one acre is $6,000 a year, but as a usual thing the gardens yield but $1,500 to the acre and the average annual profit of the gardener is not over a thousand dollars."

How many ministers and college professors and teachers and small shopkeepers, artists and literary folk are there making a healthy living and putting a thousand dollars a year in the bank besides?

The common French gardener makes this by intensive gardening. True, he begins with certain advantages. For generations before him his family have been gardeners, and the instinct for the best methods run in the blood. Within a ten mile circuit of Paris are 2,000 market gardens, models of care and culture, some of which have been held by the same families for 200 years. These gardens are not large; the largest is said to be not more than four acres, common gardens are not more than two acres, and not the smallest profits are taken from plots of a quarter acre filled with the finest care.

Their very name, the marais gardens, come from the marais or marshes of the Seine, which were drained four generations ago to get at their rich black soil. These plots are tucked away in angles of the old fortifications, or backed by the city walls, which protect them from north and east winds. Or else the garden has its own walls, eight to fifteen feet high on the north and east sides, giving a climate of its own.

Old gardens dating from Louis Philippe's time and before have hollow brick walls with heated flues to force winter fruit on trees trained against them. A border two and a half feet wide along these walls will yield more fruit of the finest quality than we commonly take from half an acre of orchard. In winter leanto or span-roof shelters of glazed sash protect the black Hamburg and chasselas grapes, or the peaches, red and perfumed, which weigh ten ounces apiece. By May these glass houses can be taken down and the trees rest and grow strong in the open air all summer.

The skilled French or Belgian gardener takes four to seven crops in a season from the same dead rich soil. There is no magic in it. The marais, or marsh gardener, turns over the old mushroom beds of the season before, forks them up roughly so that the air works among the clods freely to carry off the acrid gases of decomposition—"to sweeten the soil," as he says. In a few days it grows powdery and is beaten and raked to a level and three to nine inches of fine soil, not too fine, are sifted over it to make the seed bed.

Then radish seed, turnips or carrots of the small, tender, quick growing sorts are thinly sown and pressed gently into the earth. On this same bed twenty-five lettuce plants with leaves the size of a half dollar are set out, very likely with four or five cauliflower heads, under the same glass. In the rich warm soil, with plenty of water, the plants have nothing to do but to grow as fast as possible and get out of each other's way in succession.

The radishes are fit to pull in three weeks, the turnips and carrots in five to six weeks, the lettuce being headed and cut a fortnight before. Then the cauliflower have room to spread, with a melon vine or a cucumber in the middle to riot over the whole three by four feet enclosed, when the cauliflower heads are set out again in the open field.—Youth's Companion.

Cucumber and squash beetles are most easily kept at bay by keeping the plants well sprinkled with air slaked lime. Cabbage worms are easily destroyed if one will take a salt shaker filled with salt and some cayenne pepper and sprinkle the hearts of the plants frequently. The salt is beneficial to cabbage.

Late winter diskings, followed by the plow, is coming in vogue in some corn sections, giving admirable results. The many kinds and makes of harrows now on the market are generally available in all sections and for all purposes. To get the best results from thorough land preparation the harrow tools are indispensable.

WHY SO WEAK?

KIDNEY TROUBLES MAY BE SAVING YOUR LIFE AWAY. DIXON PEOPLE HAVE LEARNED THIS FACT

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills make sick kidneys well. Here is Dixon testimony to prove it.

Mrs. William Toot, 512 W. Second St., Dixon, Ill., says: "I suffered for years from kidney complaint and my back ached persistently. I was so weak at times that I could not attend to my housework and nothing did me any good. Finally, I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Leake Bros. Co's Drug store, and they cured me. I feel that my experience should convince the most skeptical person of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. I know of a number of other people who have taken this remedy with great benefit." (Statement given February 5, 1907.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT
Mrs. Toot was interviewed on January 5, 1910, and she added to the above: "I have no hesitation in verifying my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. During the time that has elapsed, I have taken this remedy occasionally and it has always brought prompt and effective relief."

POINT RAISED IN CHILD LABOR LAW

COMPLAINT MADE IN THIS CITY RAISES AN INTERESTING QUESTION.

A peculiar feature of the child labor law now in force will interfere seriously with entertainments in which children take part and where admission is charged, if the interpretation of the law by Factory Inspector Frisby of this city is correct.

The feature of the law which is attracting considerable attention is contained in Sec. 10, in which children under the age of 16 shall not "be employed or suffered or permitted to work at any gainful occupation.... before the hour of 7 o'clock in the morning or after 7 o'clock in the evening."

Mr. Frisby holds that while the child may not receive pay for the part he takes in any entertainment, if an admission is charged someone is gaining by the child's services, thus making it a "gainful occupation." The condition was brought to light recently by a former trap drummer of this city who objected to a 14 year old boy playing drums with an orchestra for an hour or so each evening for the educational value he could receive.

The question has been submitted to several lawyers, who have looked into it, and thus it has aroused considerable attention.

ENGAGED TO AVIS LINNELL

Richeson Acknowledged Troth to Fellow Preacher in New Bedford.

Boston, Nov. 8.—From a fellow minister of the Baptist church came the information that Clarence V. T. Richeson told of his engagement to Avis Linnell of Hyannis, for whose murder he now stands indicted.

Rev. E. C. Miller, pastor of the North Baptist church, New Bedford, says that Richeson told him of the engagement several months ago and in August told him that the engagement had been broken.

SIX MINERS BURIED ALIVE

Unless They Are Released in Five Hours Death Seems Inevitable.

Joplin, Mo., Nov. 8.—Six miners were entombed in the Needmore mine near Quonago, Mo. Unless they are released within five hours, it is said, they will be drowned.

The pillars beneath the hopper crumbled under the weight of tons of rock and the machinery and equipment fell into the shaft. The men are at a depth of 130 feet.

Exhaustion, Hunger and Exposure Cause Man to Return.

Carrollton, Ill., Nov. 8.—Exhaustion, exposure and hunger caused Elmer Carter, who saved his way out of jail at Hardin, Ill., to give himself up to a farmer, four miles from the Illinois river.

Carter and Nimrod Foval were the only prisoners in the jail. Both escaped, but Foval slipped away from Carter and returned.
